

Ring in the New Year Safely

A new year offers a new way of doing things. Consider this New Year's Eve an opportunity to skip crowded parties and start new traditions with the people you love from the comfort of your home.

Have a household dance party—the only things missing will be the long lines in cold weather and the expensive cover charge!

Dress up in your favorite outfit—even if it is your pajamas—and share photos online.

Make a traditional New Year's meal or festive snacks—they'll be much better than bar nuts!

Celebrate each hour as the clock strikes midnight in a new time zone—and don't feel like you have to stay up till midnight in yours.

Host a virtual countdown with friends and family outside your household. Don't hold back on the noisemakers!

Share your resolutions with your friends and family over email or social media to help you stick to them.
