Contents

Acknowledgments vii
About the Editors ix
Contributors xiii

Introduction: Good Health Depends on Better Communication and Stronger Partnerships 1
Ruth J. Katz, Maureen Byrnes, and Brian C. Castrucci

Part I. Why Public Health Needs to Do Better

1. Perceptions of Public Health: The Gaps Between Insiders and Other Leaders 9
   Moriah Robins

2. Communicating for Change: How We Deliver Our Ideas Matters 24
   Nat Kendall-Taylor

3. Winning Words and Strategic Stories: Building Public Support for Public Health 39
   Doug Hattaway and Eric Zimmermann

Part II. Tools and Perspectives

4. Tools: Effective Messaging and Storytelling for Public Health 53
   Mark R. Miller and Rachel Locke
Contents

Part III. Bringing Public Health to Life

5. How to Tell Impactful Stories  103
   Soledad O’Brien and Rose Arce

6. Think Like a Marketer: Find Your Hook, Make It Beautiful, and Humanize the Numbers  112
   Sarah Martin, with contributions by Anna Duin

   Conclusion—Communication in Public Health: Where We Go from Here  128
   Karen DeSalvo

References  133
Index  135